

Jack's Nature Journal
4-2-09

This morning, the weather was beautiful! When we first started out, the sky was about 1 oktas full of some wispy cirrus clouds. Then those dissipated, and the entire sky was devoid of any clouds whatsoever. The wind was cool and light and was coming from the North North East at a recorded hight of 3.4 mph. The temperatures were 70.9°F and 21.8°C, the humidity was 38% and the air pressure was 30.06 inHg. It was warm and sunny and beautiful this morning.

This morning, we heard a lot of very noisy crows, a cardinal, a robin in a tree and some turkey vultures. We also saw and heard a noisy Tufted Titmouse singing his head off.