

I definitely recommend Heifer International because of their innovative “pass-it-on” philosophy. When they give a gift of an animal to a poor family, they make sure that that family passes on the gift, and gives a female baby to another family, so that they can benefit too. Eventually, the gift will spread across the community, helping everyone. I also recommend that we donate to Heifer because of all the good work their educators are doing in all parts of the world, teaching the people how to properly care for the animals that they have been given.

I recommend that we also donate to CARE. CARE is an organization that is helping global poverty by empowering women and teaching them. From there, they can help everyone and teach the things they learned to the entire community. They also deliver emergency aid to the survivors of war and natural disasters, and seek to eliminate discrimination in any form. I also recommend that we donate to CARE because of the great work they do, increasing sanitation and stopping the spread of diseases such as HIV.
