

A baguette is a loaf of French bread.

A briquette is a small block of compressed coal dust or charcoal used for fuel, esp. in barbecuing.

We lit the fire and roasted the baguettes over the briquettes.

Cinnamon is a common culinary spice of dried rolled strips of cinnamon tree bark, often made into a powder.

Cinnabar is a red mercuric sulfide, used as a pigment.

Do not mix up the cinnamon with the cinnabar, as cinnabar contains mercury.

A gustatory delight is something with a delightful taste.

If you blanch some almonds, you scald them in order to remove their skins.

Pasta is any of various flour-and-egg food preparations of Italian origin, made of thin, unleavened dough and produced in a variety of forms, usually served with a sauce and sometimes stuffed.

A Hosta is any of various plants belonging to the genus Hosta, of the lily family, which includes the plantain lily.

The dog grabbed the bowl of pasta and buried it under the Hostas.

Piquant is agreeably sharp or pungent

The spice in the soup made it extremely piquant.

A pullet is a young hen, less than one year old.

A palette is a thin and usually oval or oblong board or tablet with a thumb hole at one end, used by painters for holding and mixing colors.

A palate is the roof of your mouth.

The artist applied paint to his palette while eating a pullet, but the pullet got stuck to his palate.

Eggplant shall always be the bane of me, unless someone smothers it in acres of cheese.

Each dish contained an outstanding amount of delicious blackberries with bananas cut into thin strips and a dollop of cream.

Cappuccino

Cocoa

Coffee

Espresso

Iced tea

Java
Juice
Lemonade
Malt
Milk
Milk shake
Punch
Root beer
Soda
Sparkling Water
Spritzer
Tea
Tonic
Water